Farewell to Seniors

Dear Senior,

As you depart from McKinley High School, you are undoubtedly reviewing many moments that will remain etched in your memory. Indeed, I hope that you will always be cognizant of the fine educational experiences that you have acquired at Tech, for our ultimate goal has been to prepare you for tomorrow.

We are living in an age that has witnessed a virtual end to social discrimination, as well as the beginning and the end of most affirmative action programs. Yet, although the Bakke decision and recent exposures of political corruption might bode a seemingly bleak future, you are the catalyst that can ignite this country and make black people a positive force in American society. Through the acquisition of knowledge, you can force America to move in a direction where a person will possess affirmative action in educational preparedness, not because of being black, but in spite of being black. Yes, preparation for tomorrow is our goal, because a race that is prepared for the future will always survive.

Daniel Payne, one of the world's greatest theologians and educators, said, in essence, that the difference between the master and the slave is that the master has knowledge and power, while the slave is lacking in both. Those who fail to prepare each day for tomorrow are destined to spend the rest of their lives in economic, intellectual, and political slavery. Instead of reaching the impossible dream, they will succumb to the ever-present hell of deprivation.

Contemplating the past twelve years and thinking about today and yesterday, how do you envision tomorrow? Does it promise to be exciting, full of challenges that you are prepared to meet; or are you afraid that, because of the wasted yesterdays and today, tomorrow will defeat you? Let us not permit ourselves to be victims of an unproductive past, but recipients of the opportunities that are reserved for a prepared people.

Good-bye and good luck, and may the grace of God be ever present with you.

Cordially,
Dr. Athel Q. Liggins
Principal
